The ability to work as part of a community is one of the most important skills in today’s society. We are looking for motivated people to join a self-empowered, online team that meets periodically (usually weekly) and provides a challenging and stimulating experience. The goal is to accomplish something important to you and your community in your teamwork and problem-solving skills using our tool set and your wisdom. This will bring you to a new level in your personal growth as well as supporting your community. We feel that in addition to being a learning experience, the process should result in a recommendation of some improvement be it ever so small. Also it should be fun. Tasteful humor is important and encouraged. "Enjoy the journey"
